Alabama man held on interstate rape

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

A Prattville, Alabama truck driver was arrested early Thursday and charged with the alleged rape of a 32-year-old New Orleans woman in Hancock County.

Officials indicated the case is in no way related to three recent rapes in Bay St. Louis.

Hancock County Criminal Investigator Nathan Hoda said, "Douglas, Costner, 32, of Prattville, Alabama, is lodged in the Hancock jail without bond in connection with the alleged rape, which occurred around midnight Wednesday, at a rest area on Interstate 10 in the county.

"The woman was abducted from a New Orleans bar Wednesday night, handcuffed, gagged, her legs strapped with duct tape and taken out of the city in an 18-wheeler," Hoda said.

She said the driver, accompanied by a woman, who was later dropped off in New Orleans, then proceeded to the rest area on I-10 in Hancock County where he allegedly raped her, according to Hoda.

"He then traveled east on the Interstate and stopped at a truck stop near the Alabama line.

"The woman managed to get away, and he saw her talking to two other truckers. He fled in the truck, and after authorities were notified he was apprehended by Jackson County deputies," Hoda said.

Since the woman was abducted and taken across a state line, the Federal Bureau of Investigation is also involved in the investigation, Hoda said adding, "There is a possibility other charges may be brought against Costner."

Costner is scheduled to appear before a Hancock County Justice Court Judge on Monday for a preliminary hearing, Hoda said. Costner was turned over to the Hancock County sheriff's office by a state trooper about 5 a.m. Thursday.

Bay Flag Memorial review date set

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay Flag Memorial Drive's first full flag review is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 5, Gene Schloegel, organizer said.

The first full review of the flags will include a drive through to review the flags with a motorcade to be led by Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre.

The drive is co-sponsored by the City of Bay St. Louis, Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, and the Bay-Waveland Elks Club, Schloegel said.

Schloegel, a member of the American Legion and the new Elks Lodge, is a resident Bay St. Louis.

Schloegel said, "The main object is to provide 90 American, 50 state and 40 Mississippi flags to be displayed on the new light poles along Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis for special occasions and holidays, as declared by the mayor.

"We now have on hand 48 of the 50 state flags for the main display. Florida and Minnesota's state flags should arrive within a few weeks. Many of the state flags have been donated by state governors and DAV state departments.

"The residents, organizations and businesses of Bay St. Louis have supported the program so well, a decision to permanently fly a limited number of American and Mississippi Flags has been formulated.

"This will mean a display of five flags at the East and West entrance to Bay St. Louis and seven flags each at Main Street and Dunbar Avenue on Highway 90.

Making a list, checking it twice!

Bay St. Louis Fire Department dispatcher/secretary Tammy Garber, left, checks an inventory list of toys Friday under the watchful eye of Chief Andrew Lizana, Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund chairman. Lizana reports he already has 423 names of deserving boys and girls with requests for toys. RSVP volunteers will take names for others on Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays until Dec. 10 at the Community Action Agency from 9 a.m. until noon. The Doll and Toy Fund is an agency of the United Way of South Mississippi and also receives private donations. The agency distributed toys to over 1,200 in 1992. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Doll and Toy Fund taking names

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Retired Senior Volunteers (RSVP) will begin Monday morning taking names of deserving children for the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund.

RSVP volunteers will be at the Community Action Agency, 423 Third Street, Bay St. Louis, from 9 a.m. until noon, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays through Dec. 10, said Joanne Lagasse, executive director. Applications for 423 deserving boys and girls have already been received, said Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana, Doll and Toy Fund chairman.

"It is looking like we will have a record number of applications this year because of the influx of new residents to our county," Lizana added.

During the 1992 Christmas season, some 1,200 children received toys from the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund.

Funding for the toys comes through the United Way of South Mississippi, business, industry and individual donations.

Some new and slightly used toys are also donated.

"There are regular individuals, businesses and organizations who make contributions to the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund, and I am sure we will really need their help this year," Lizana said.

The program started out many years ago when Bay St. Louis firefighters reconditioned several bicycles for needy youngsters in Bay St. Louis. It now has grown to include the entire county.

Lizana and Tammy Garber, fire department dispatcher/secretary, try their best to match toys to the individual deserving boy or girl according

Project 'Ride Safe'

A program to prevent childhood disabilities

BY AMY PICKICH

In their efforts to prevent and help childhood disabilities, the University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Coast Toy Library in Long Beach is providing free car seats for every child in Hancock County.

And more importantly, they are also training parents how to use the seats properly.

The new project, "Ride Safe", is being funded through a grant from the Center for Disease Control in conjunction with the State Department of Rehabilitative Services. There is a $10 deposit for the car seat, which is returned in two weeks after a safety check.

Project director Sara Jackson, along with project coordinators Chris Nixon and Anita Cagley found a need by observing the usage of car seats at day care centers throughout the county.

Cagley said they eventually would like to expand the program Coastwide by turning their data over to law enforcement agencies for education and distribution of car seats. Right now they are trying to make a difference in a certain area.

"What we found is a lack of general information or misinformation in the usage of car seats," Jackson said. "...It's not only having and using the car seat, it's using it properly."

Jackson said some 80 percent of those who use car seats do not use them properly.

CHILD RESTRAINT LAW
Jackson said that people are misinformed about the law concerning child mandated restraint laws as well.

According to the State Department of Public Safety, any child under the age of two must be in a child restraint device. A violation of the law is punishable by a fine of up to $25.

Cagley said even though the law states two-years-old as a guideline for car seat usage, weight of the child is more important. Also important is the way the car seat is used.

According to Cagley, in Louisiana the law requires usage of car seats for children until 4-years old or 40 pounds; in Alabama the law is 6-years-old or 60 pounds.

PROPER USAGE
Cagley said the following are typical standards for proper usage. She said it is important to read all the specifics for each particular car seat.

Infant car seats should be used for children up to 20 pounds, always face rearward and recline 30 degrees.

Toddler and convertible car seats should be used for infants and children up to 40 pounds. For infants, it should recline and face rearwards. For toddlers, it should be positioned upright and forward facing.

Booster seats should be used for toddlers who weigh 30 to 60 pounds. The child must be used with a tethered harness or shoulder straps if it does not have a shield. It can be used to age and needs.

A lot of information is gathered by RSVP when taking the applications, such as age, sex and type of toys children would like.

Assisting with delivery of toys are the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments, Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies and Hancock County Firefighters.

Several of the local merchants collect toys for the Doll and Toy Fund.

Area merchants also give special prices to Lizana as he 'shops' for the boys and girls.

"Without the assistance of the many friends of the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund, along with the United Way, RSVP, Gulf Coast Community Action, the magnitude of this program would not be possible," Lizana said.

Anyone interested in further information can reach Lizana or Garber at 467-4736.

"A nineteen foot flag has also been donated by the Biloxi/Gulfport Veterans Administration and it will be displayed on a permanent basis at the Bay bridge too.

"The display of the American flags will symbolize the residents' love of country and Bay St. Louis. The state flags are a welcoming symbol by businesses and residents to visitors of this city and state.

A gift of a larger American flag and pole has been made to the drive, and it will be located at the foot of the Bay St. Louis bridge on U.S. Highway 90, to be used as a ceremonial flag.

There will be a dedication stone to be displayed as Living Memorials, from contributors of $100 or more in donations or gifts to be located at the main flag pole.

Schloegel said, if there are those who would like to make a contribution, it should be mailed to: Bay Flag Memorial Drive, City of Bay St. Louis, P.O. Box 2550, Bay St. Louis, MS 39521. with just a lap belt if it has a shield.

A car seat is used incorrectly if it is not secured to the automobile with a seat belt; if the harness straps are not used or are very loose; if an infant is facing forward; or if a top tether strap is present but not used.

Prospective car seat buyers should make sure the seat has been manufactured since 1981, has never been in an accident or recalled, has no damage to seat or parts and all parts are present and working.

THE TOY LIBRARY

With this project, The Toy Library is interested in preventing childhood disabilities through the use of car seats. In addition the center provides services to children who are disabled.

The Toy Library, also known as Technology Learning Center or TLC, began with toy projects for learning and fun, but have expanded to computers.

Jackson said disabled children are able to learn cause and effect through their experiences with toys.

Cagley said they have expanded to use of alternative access computers so disabled children can have the same opportunities learning and playing as other children.

"All children need to play, because that is how they learn," Jackson said.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

We are once again in the Christmas season. 'Shop until you drop' is a term many use this time of year as they go about the task of making Christmas purchases.

Trying to buy the 'perfect' gift for those on the shopping list is an art for some folks.

One of the suggestions I would like to make is for shoppers to begin early when our local stores are fully supplied. If you wait until the last minute, you may not find the 'perfect' gift for that someone special.

I suggest that everyone make it a practice to Shop at Home first for all Christmas gift list items.

We have a wide variety of merchants, and just about anything can be found while shopping at home.

Your local merchants appreciate the business. You also help your friends and neighbors who work in your community.

I hope that everyone will be able to find all of those 'perfect' gifts for that someone special.

Thinking of those who may not be as fortunate as we are is very important at this time of year.

There are many ways we can help others, especially by supporting the United Way of South Mississippi, which funds some 48 agencies in a tri-county area, or through additional help to many of these agencies.

The Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund director, Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana, reports he is expecting a record number of names of deserving youngsters this year.

We have had many families move into our community during the past year and many have young families. In case you are wondering, check our two school systems on the increase of students.

The Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund is an agency of the United Way of South Mississippi, yet that is not all of the help it takes to make it a successful venture.

There are businesses, individuals, organizations and merchants who help in many ways.

Some bring new toys, quality used toys and cash contributions.

Chief Lizana already has a shopping list for over 423 deserving boys and girls, and he and his secretary are already shopping to fill their wishes.

A lot of events begin to happen next weekend.

On Saturday the annual Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Red Ribbon Christmas parade is set for 11 a.m.

The Coast Youth Ballet Ensemble's presentation of the Nutcracker at Bay High Auditorium is Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m.

The Waveland Festival of Lights & Christmas Card Lane celebration is on Sunday.

President signs defense spending bill

The President has approved a $241 billion defense spending bill that will stimulate numerous defense projects throughout South Mississippi, announced U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor.

"This is outstanding news for Mississippi's shipyard workers, Merchant Mariners, Hurricane Reconnaissance Squadron and the Gulf States Counter-Narcotics Task Force," said Taylor.

The defense bill included a wealth of shipbuilding programs that will most probably be awarded to many of South Mississippi's shipyards. The majority of a $2.6 billion appropriation for three DDG-51 class guided missile destroyers could go to Ingalls Shipbuilding in Pascagoula. Additionally, $50 million in advance funding for LHD-7 remained intact. Rep. Taylor praised Sen. Thad Cochran for successfully getting the forward-funding for the Marine helicopter transport carrier which Sen. Cochran included in the Senate defense spending bill earlier this year. Ingalls is the premier builder of the mammoth ship.

Trinity Marine Group in Gulfport could experience additional shipbuilding contracts. The bill included $110 million for the construction of oceanographic research vessels. Trinity builds the T-AGS ocean survey class, and has been given the option by the Navy to build additional ships.

To assist shipyards in the transition from defense to commercial construction, the House agreed to $97 million for shipbuilding loan guarantees. An additional $1.2 billion may be available for later transfer to shipbuilding and conversion.

The bill also included $1.9 million to support the WC-130 Weather Reconnaissance Squadron stationed at Keesler Air Force Base. The funds will cover the operation, maintenance and personnel expenses of the hurricane hunting unit. "If you live in Mississippi you know how valuable these flights can be," Taylor said. "I am thankful Congress continues to see the country's need for this vital program. There is no doubt that these missions save countless lives and millions of dollars in property."

The Gulf States Counter-Narcotic Initiative program based in Meridian, also received funding. The counter drug force will receive $3.2 million to assist Mississippi's law enforcement agencies enforce drug laws.

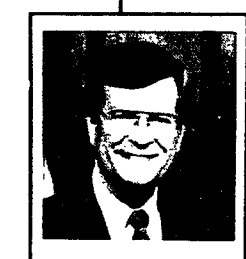

Chip Enterprises."

The chips were down for Shelby Die Casting, but the company made a drastic turnaround and came to be recognized as one of America's outstanding small businesses.

Mississippi is overflowing with successful small businesses that have truly survived throughout the times when the chips were down.

So think about it, small business owners. There may be more than one U.S. Blue Chip Enterprise in the state.

It's worth a try to get the blues.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Good economic news for Mississippi

Earlier this month the respected magazine U.S. News & World Report surveyed all 50 states and the District of Columbia to gauge their fiscal health since the beginning of the economic recovery in 1991. Its findings surprised everyone in the country except the citizens of the state which was ranked Number 1 in economic growth — Mississippi.

The U.S. News survey showed construction employment in Mississippi up 11.8 percent over the past eight months. Our unemployment rate has dropped from 10.8 percent to 5.4 percent, and retail sales have jumped 11 percent.

But Mississippi's economy is people, not statistics. It is Mississippians who, presented with jobs and opportunities, are driving our state's economic recovery. Given the tools, they will complete the job.

For instance, Mississippians are doing the job in Guntown, the site of the new Norbord Industries plant, which will employ 150 persons to manufacture wafer board, widely used in residential construction. At the same time, Norbord will generate about 600 secondary forest-industry jobs. Its $83 million capital investment is the largest private-sector business commitment this year in Mississippi.

Mississippians also are getting the job done in Corinth where the Senate has agreed to construct a $6 million visitors' center at the Corinth National Battlefield. The addition of a visitors' center not only will aid in the preservation and understanding of American history, it will provide a tremendous draw for tourism and a boost to Mississippi's economy.

The job's getting done at the Golden Triangle Industrial Park in Lowndes County where a federal-state plan to fund water system improvements has enabled the park to entice the Weyerhaeuser Company to locate a $54 million facility there that will employ about 55 persons.

Many more federal-state partnerships have resulted in new and improved highways, interchanges, and bridges to provide vital access for new industry and business. Our airports are expanding and adding sophisticated weather and safety systems, also important in attracting and linking our businesses to the rest of the country.

The deepening and widening of the Gulfport Harbor means more and larger ships can access our state port, increasing Mississippi's export capacity.

High-tech computers for our schools and new materials for our libraries and museums make these facilities more attractive to the workers of businesses considering making Mississippi their home.

In this post-Cold War period when military bases all over the country are being closed or realigned, we in Mississippi have succeeded, not only in keeping all our bases open, but in actually expanding the missions of Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi and Columbus Air Force Base, and bringing more ships to Naval Station Pascagoula.

And, as a result of the 1994 Department of Defense Authorization Bill, Ingalls Shipbuilding in Pascagoula will receive more than $1 billion in new ship construction contracts. Construction of Naval Oceanographic shops, service craft, C-130 aircraft, and advanced torpedoes will continue at Trinity Marine on the Gulf Coast, Lockheed in Meridian, and Hughes Aerospace in Forest.

Mississippi is experiencing economic growth because we are improving what is good about our state, fixing what is broken, and looking at the whole picture of quality of life, education, health, transportation, and industrial infrastructure from a futuristic standpoint as we approach the 21st Century.

That's why Mississippi is Number 1 today.

Senator Lott welcomes any questions and/or comments about this column. Please write to: U.S. Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (Attention: Press Office).

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Getting the business blues

Though the chips may be down for many small businesses in the United States, the chips are up for others. And numerous small businesses in the U.S. are going from having the blues to being honored with the blues.

The Blue Chip Enterprise award program gives national recognition to small businesses that have overcome challenges and emerged stronger. In the 1990s, this is a feat that is not always easy to accomplish in small business.

The awards are sponsored by Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and Nation's Business magazine. Competition is open to any for-profit company that has been in continuous operation for at least three years and employs 5 to 300 people.

Now, many small business owners in Mississippi might look at the Blue Chip program and feel it is not something their business can accomplish.

After all, this is Mississippi and that is a national competition. The successes of the state's small businesses are not worthy of national recognition.

In stepped Shelby Die Casting of Shelby, Miss., a small business which overcame unprofitability, a dispirited work force, and a 35 percent scrap rate.

After going through three general managers, its majority owner, G. Rives Neblett, closed his law practice to run the company. Better communication between managers and employees, coupled with the institution of a Total Quality Management Program, helped turn the company around—and become one of the four 1993 national designees of the Blue Chip Enterprise program.

The 1993 awards program will designate about 200 small companies from throughout the country as Blue Chip Enterprises, and the four most exemplary companies will be honored as "America's Blue

Coast Electric earns national safety award

Coast Electric Power Association has been awarded a certificate of excellence from the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association for its exceptional safety practices.

NRECA, the service organization for this nation's 1,000 rural electric systems, presents this award through its National Safety Accreditation Program.

According to Robert Occhi, Coast Electric general manager, the safety accreditation honor is awarded to those power systems that meet or exceed the organization's rigid guidelines.

"In order to qualify for the accreditation, a rural electric system must undergo a safety audit conducted by industry experts and observers who rate over 160 specific areas of our company safety procedures, employee training and job performance," Occhi stated.

The audit and rating is then reviewed by the National Safety Accreditation Committee who makes the award selection.

"Only those electric systems that operate under the highest level of safety and show outstanding employee awareness receive this award," commented Stan Rucker, director, Job Training and Safety for the Electric Power Associations of Mississippi.

The accreditation program was first implemented in 1967 to assist rural electric systems in developing on-the-job safety standards, on-going training programs and maintaining safe work environments.

"We make application for this award every three years," stated Don Moran, who coordinates Coast Electric's safety programs. "It's our eighth application in the past 24 years. And though we've been through the process many times, it shows that Coast Electric is dedicated to accident prevention and the well being of its workers."

"Coast Electric employees are skilled professionals, who are keenly alert and aware of the potential dangers associated with their jobs," said Occhi. "The Certificate of Excellence is displayed with pride, dedication and continued commitment to safety."

Coast Electric Power Association

sion serves over 46,000 members in Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River counties.

It is one of the fastest growing electric cooperatives in Mississippi with a power distribution network of over 3,900 miles of line.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The fourth semi-annual Speckled Trout Workshop was held this week over at the facilities of the Gulf South Research Laboratories in Ocean Springs.

This workshop focused on various aspects of the spotted seatrout population in Mississippi waters. A summary of data collected in Mississippi coastal waters for the past 24 months was presented.

The workshop was broken down into two basic sections. The first section dealt with the overall health of the trout population, while the second section dealt with the male/female ratios of the trout on an age structure analysis.

Before I go any further, I just have to say that the two people I feel are the prime movers and shakers of this project, "Tut" Warren and Jim Franks, are to be congratulated for the outstanding job they are doing with this project.

BAYOU CADDY
Biologist Ronda Russell explained she has been doing a good deal of fisheries research in the Heron Bay/Bayou Caddy area over the past 14 months. Her research has shown several interesting trends concerning the trout populations in this area.

Among the trends she discovered is there appears to be a larger population of trout in this area than there was last year. She further indicated that the largest trout are showing up in the months of November and December. The hot summer months are showing the greatest number of smaller trout in this area.

The methods that biologist Russell uses are models of consistency. She uses both gill nets and hook and line to catch samples of the trout. She fishes in the same spot, at the same time, using the same fishing method, to ensure that the results of the catch are accurate.

I know that some folks say that they could tell her that there are better places to catch fish; but she feels that by choosing one spot consistently, she can obtain a more accurate reading as to the fish population. In other words... consistency, not total numbers, give the most accurate picture.

Since there seems to be a rather significant increase in the trout population, a question was raised from the audience if there is any historical evidence that the fish population shows any dramatic increases in the years after a devastating freeze, like we had about four or five years ago. The answer was that there seems to be a body of evidence that shows that this is indeed the case. Although the evidence is inconclusive.

AVERAGE SIZE
It will come as no surprise to the folks who fish the inshore shallow waters that the sampling showed the vast majority of all speckled trout sampled were in the 12-inch range. The charts of the catch data have a big peak on the 12-inch size.

The catch data drops off like a cliff for the next size, which is 14 inches. It shows that when you get to the 16-inch size, the larger size trout are almost nonexistent. This does not mean that you won't catch any larger trout. It just means that they comprise such a small number of the total trout population that their numbers are not significant.

The date on male/female ratios is something that the folks in Hancock County really raised sand about when BMR started messing with size limits a couple of years ago.

It seems when they raised the size limit to 14 inches, the majority of the catch turned out to be female trout. All of these allegations of mismanagement by BMR apparently caused Gulf South Research Laboratory to do some studies on the male/female ratio of trout.

Guess what? They found that the age distribution by sex is 7 female to 1 male at 14 inches, and the ratio above 14 inches is so distorted as to be almost unmeasurable.

In other words, it is very rare to find a male trout over 14 inches long. Setting the size limit at 14 inches means that mostly female trout are being caught while the male trout resource is not being utilized.

An interesting piece of information came up on how to determine the sex of trout when there are no eggs present. The male has a reddish area on the inside of the stomach cavity right next to the air bladder. The female does not have this reddish area. The male gonads are usually white during breeding time, but this is not always the case. The reddish area lining the stomach cavity is called (I think) the "Sonariffic muscle." This muscle rubs against the air bladder to make the croaking sound that you hear when you catch a male trout.

TAGGING
Jim Franks spent a lot of time talking about upcoming tagging programs with speckled trout. I must admit that this is an area in which I have had much trepidation. There is a great potential of killing the trout in the handling process.

Franks explained while it is true that the speckled trout is a sensitive and delicate fish, there are ways to handle it that will improve its chances of survival after the tagging process. The number one thing to remember is to handle the trout gently with a wet towel. Never touch the gills.

It is interesting to note that some of the tagged trout have already been recovered. One trout that was tagged and released by the Biloxi Bridge was caught three months later out by Freemason Island.

It was explained that tagging is a method to obtain valuable data on the overall health of the trout population. It is currently being done in Louisiana and Florida.

I must say again how fortunate we are to have the concerned biologists at Gulf Coast Research Laboratories working for our trout resources. We can only hope that our state agencies are astute enough to respond to the results of these studies.

On the subject of studies: Please help by reporting your trout catch on the simple form that is provided by Gulf Coast Research Laboratories. It is called the Spotted Seatrout Information Sheet.

You can obtain these sheets by calling (601) 872-4282 or writing to Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, P. O. Box 7000, Ocean Springs, MS 39566.

This week's wonderful words: There is no substitute for valid scientific research.

If you are really concerned about your trout, you gotta' get involved, right Turtle?

SSC expands soccer team

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws recently expanded their already successful soccer program to include seventh and eighth graders.

Tryouts were held at Rock-A-Chaw stadium and the following players were named to the squad: Jeremy Edwards, Brandon Everett, Kyle Foster, Jonathan Gagnon, Mark Gagnon, Brian Geiger, Kyle Kidd, Nick Middleton, Edson Oceana, Chad Ours, Alejandro Portales, Roger Ridgeway, Jason Rieben, Jimmy Saucier, Cameron Schwartz, and Justin Wadsworth.

Coaching will be provided by Andy Kivlan, Jerry Ross, and Art Rieben.

The team's first match will be December 1, at St. Paul's in Covington, La. At least two more games are scheduled, one on Jan. 15 and another on Jan. 22. The 10 a.m. kickoff for both games will be at Rock-a-chaw stadium.

Recreational leagues, which begin at age four, successful high school and college programs, and the excitement of having the World Cup in the United States for the first time have all contributed to the growth of the sport.

This increase in popularity has put soccer in the position to rival the "big three," football, basketball and baseball, as a major spectator sport in the near future.

The flexible hand-hold is convenient for passengers of many sizes and the padded nerf bars give the riders a feeling of being part of the machine. That seat has real automotive styling with its high back comfort and pleated cover over a dense foam cushion. There's a lot of special engineering from the passenger's foot guard to drop frame and wide track design. The parking brake is unique, too. It sets easily.

You start the engine, get in and a simple foot tap releases the brake, and your off. A great safety idea from Manco.

SOUTHERNERS FIRST TO MAKE CHRISTMAS LEGAL

Three Southern states were the first in the nation to make Christmas a legal holiday — Louisiana and Arkansas in 1831 and Alabama in 1836.

—from an entry by Allen Cabaniss in Encyclopedia of Southern Culture

FIRST CHRISTMAS IN NORTH AMERICA

The first Christmas celebration in North America was likely by the Spanish in Florida or the Southwest in the 1500s, but the first recorded commemoration of Christmas took place in Jamestown, Va. in 1607, when about 40 British colonists gathered in a primitive wooden chapel for a somber day. Until well into the 19th century, the Protestants of New England looked with suspicion upon Christmas as a "popish" day, but Southerners generally encouraged a joyous celebration.

—from an entry by Allen Cabaniss in Encyclopedia of Southern Culture

CHRISTMAS DOWN SOUTH

Antebellum gentleman farmers in the South regarded Christmas Day more as a time of relaxation and social activity than as a religious holiday. Although they preserved such European custom as caroling, burning the yule log and decorating with greenery, native seafood and turkey replaced the traditional European dishes of beef and goose. Southerners added other regional touches, too, such as eating fried oysters, drinking eggnog with rum and going on a Christmas-morning hunt for foxes or small game.

—from an entry by Allen Cabaniss in Encyclopedia of Southern Culture

HOLIDAY DECORATING SOUTHERN STYLE

Spanish moss was used as a primitive "angel hair" for decorating in the early Deep South. The poinsettia became a custom in 1925 when a Charleston man with that name brought a red flower back from Mexico as a gift, and others were soon decorating with poinsettias.

—from an entry by Allen Cabaniss in Encyclopedia of Southern Culture

CAJUNS FIRE UP FOR CHRISTMAS

The French in Louisiana introduced the tradition of Christmas fireworks, setting off firecrackers and firing rifles. Until World War I, Southerners rarely used fireworks on the Fourth of July but did punctuate the Christmas holiday with them. A long-standing Cajun custom in the Christmas Eve bonfires, known as jeux de joie (fires of joy), burning all night along the Mississippi River from Baton Rouge to New Orleans.

—from an entry by Allen Cabaniss in Encyclopedia of Southern Culture

ANTEBELLUM COUNTRY CHRISTMASSES

The plantation was the center for the most elaborate and distinctive antebellum Southern Christmas celebrations. In rural areas plantation houses were the scene of sometimes extravagant Christmas parties, eating and playing, including the morning hunt. December was a slow work month on the typical plantation, and it became the social season for slaves, too. The slaves' holiday lasted until the yule log burned, which sometimes took over a week.

Christmas in the Pass December 3

As the holiday season approaches, the citizens and merchants of Pass Christian are preparing for one of the city's brightest family events, the ninth annual "Christmas in the Pass."

The city will be decked with holiday cheer and festivities beginning at 4 p.m. on Dec. 3. You will be able to sign up at all merchants that are open for drawing to be held at 9 p.m. for a wing back chair.

Christmas in the Pass has become the city's traditional "open house" celebration. This one-day event is the opening of the holiday season, sponsored by the Pass Christian area council of the Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce and the city of Pass Christian. It is also supported by area merchants for the benefit of the citizens of the Gulf Coast.

Drawing upon the city's rich history, Christmas in the Pass features open house at businesses throughout the downtown area, choir caroling, a Christmas parade with Santa, Seabees color guard, a lighted boat parade and much more. There will be craft displays and special menu offerings.

Advent Day at St. Thomas Episcopal Church

St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Diamondhead invites the public to an Advent Quiet Day 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Dec. 9.

The Reverend Linda L. Lowry will conduct the event. Bring a sandwich; soft drinks, coffee and cookies will be supplied.

For more information call Sue Stewart at 255-1953. The church is located at 5303 Diamondhead Circle.

Parade and football game to kick off holiday season

In a joint effort by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and the county's law enforcement agencies, the Christmas season will be kicked off in force on Saturday, December 4.

Plans are being finalized for the annual Red Ribbon Christmas Parade to precede the charity football game. The parade, scheduled to roll at 11 a.m., promises to be the biggest ever, with numerous units already committed to participate. The line-up will begin at 10 a.m. Anyone interested in participating in the parade can call the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Immediately following the parade, the operation Merry Christmas charity football game will be played at the Bay High School stadium off of Highland Drive.

The Bay St. Louis police department will take on the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. Admission is one toy.

Join in the fun on Saturday Dec. 4 and help make certain all children in Hancock County have a merry Christmas this year.

A massage at Bay Therapies is healing, comforting

Andora McNair Smith, owner and operator of Bay Therapeutic and Sports Massage, is a licensed clinical massage therapist who has been in the business for ten years.

She said massage is healing as well as comforting. It is a form of sports therapy and can relieve depression, migraines and stress.

She said massage has had a bad name in the past, but now it has become a non-traditional way of healing. Smith is interested in the medical and clinical aspects of massage.

Now that doctors have said most diseases are stress related, she said massage is a form of disease prevention as "it is the ultimate form of stress therapy."

Smith has a long list of clients. She was massage therapist for Eddie Kidd, winner of the Dare Devil Duo at Casino Magic, the Miss Teen U.S.A. and Production Company and the Residential Care Center Nursing Home in Bay St. Louis, just to name a few.

Additionally she has done volunteer massage work, including work at a therapy clinic and a battered women's shelter.

She works with pregnant women and teaches them how to manage their babies' behavior through massage. She has also visited patients in the hospital to work with them.

Smith said she provided massage therapy for a sick priest who died in her arms. She said he told her the massages were the only thing that brought him comfort during his fatal illness.

Call Smith at 467-9692 for more information or to make an appointment. Fees are negotiable.

"No one in pain, who needs my services and cannot afford them will be turned away," she said.
